FOOD

Spring / Summer	Autumn / Winter
High protein food and vitamins e.g. good seed mixes, sunflower seeds, fruit, mealworms	High energy food, high fat or oil content e.g. peanuts, suet, sunflower seeds

Black sunflower seed

Black sunflower seed has thinner husks than striped seed, making it more accessible to garden birds. High in fats and protein, this make an ideal all year round feed for finches and tits.

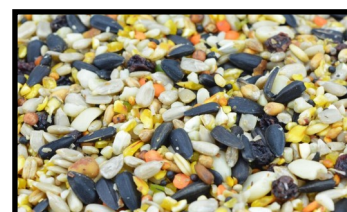

Sunflower hearts

De-husked sunflower seed. More accessible to a wider variety of garden birds, and does not leave so much mess under the feeder/bird table. A real favourite with garden birds.

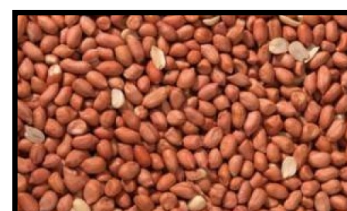

Seed mixes

Seed mixes come in a vast range, differing in content and quality. Cheaper mixes have more cereal and less variety of ingredients. Better quality mixes have a larger range of ingredients and attract a wider variety of birds. Look for the Calvita® Vitamin Enriched packs for added nutrients.

Peanuts

High in oils and fats, ideal autumn and winter feed. Only buy good quality peanuts as poor quality may be contaminated by a poison (Aflatoxin). Feed in mesh feeders so that young birds cannot take the nut whole and risk choking.

Nyjer seed

Sometimes sold as "thistle seed", nyjer (or nyger) seed is rich in oil and protein, ideal for small birds and a favourite of goldfinches. Good for all year round feeding in specialised nyjer feeders.

Mealworms

Not actually worms, but a dried beetle larvae. High in protein and therefore ideal for spring and summer feeding, especially for soft billed birds such as robins, wagtails, thrushes etc. They can be soaked and rehydrated to feed to young birds.

Suet and fat balls

Excellent autumn and winter feed, providing birds with energy fuel to maintain warmth during the cold months. Some fat balls have added seed, fruit or mealworms.
